

Problem Statement:

College students struggle to effectively manage their academic and extracurricular commitments due to a lack of integrated, easy to use tools.

College students often face the challenge of juggling multiple courses, assignments, exams, and extracurricular activities. Existing planning tools are generally not customized for the college environment and lack integration with university course management systems. This leads to disorganization, missed deadlines, and increased stress. By developing a planner that syncs with college platforms and is designed specifically for their unique schedules, these students could better manage their time and responsibilities.
